Fall Trimester, Module Modules 1–2
September 7 – December 14, 2016

Course Description

The student continues the study of biblical Hebrew, including additional vocabulary, review and amplification of grammar, syntax, and translation. During the second trimester the student will be introduced to the principles of exegesis, including textual criticism, these principles to be applied to selected parts of the Hebrew Old Testament. Trimester 3 Units

Professor's Comment

“Exegesis is the skillful application of sound hermeneutical principles to the biblical text in the original language with a view to understanding and declaring the author’s intended meaning.” – John Grassmick

Exegesis is the “mountain peak” of the seminary study of biblical languages. In order to effectively climb this height of understanding the student must be diligent in all matters of grammar, syntax, and linguistic investigation. Crucial to the process is the discipline of prayer. The work hard and perseverance necessary to be successful in Intermediate Hebrew is a small price to pay for the privilege of drawing closer to God through the study of His wonderful Word than ever before.

Required Textbooks

(It is the professor's view that a student studying on a graduate level should have an electronic Bible program (BibleWorks [or Accordance for Apple computers] and/or Logos). Most of the following required textbooks are available on these programs. You do not have to purchase an electronic Bible program in order to take this course and do well in it, but such programs are clearly superior. Also, it is the reality of ordering books today can be a trying experience. Prices can vary greatly. Therefore, when purchasing your books, be sure to shop around. Used books and Kindle editions are acceptable. You should also be aware that some books are available for PDF downloads. If you run into problems or have questions, the professor is always available [by email preferably] to help you.)

Academic Integrity

Southern California Seminary expects its students to be “above reproach” in their personal and academic lives (1 Timothy 3:2-7). If evidence of academic dishonesty is discovered, the Dean of the program with the Director of Student Affairs will investigate the matter and apply discipline.

Plagiarism is treating another person's work as one's own. It includes taking another's words, sentences, ideas or outlines without giving proper credit to the source, including that of copying from other students. One who aids another student in plagiarism is likewise guilty of the same deception and will receive an academic penalty. The minimum penalty is failure of the paper; test, etc. where the deception occurred. The maximum penalty is dismissal from school.

Cheating is never tolerated at SCS, and any student caught cheating will be disciplined accordingly. The discipline may result in suspension or expulsion from the program.
